

Korri Anderson is a current patient turned patient navigator as her experience is personal and professional. Anderson has a family member who is legally blind and has had to navigate multiple systems for her family.